India's New Labour Law
Framework

Backed by Legacy. Built for Professionals.

Introducing a New Era in Labour Law

From 29 Labour Laws to 4 Comprehensive Codes

India's labour law framework has undergone a historic overhaul, with 29 central enactments now consolidated into four comprehensive Labour Codes. This consolidation aims to simplify compliance, enhance transparency, and provide a unified structure for employment-related laws.

This legal transformation requires a modern approach to research—one that empowers professionals to interpret the new framework while retaining visibility into existing provisions and judicial precedents.

Taxmann.com | Research now brings you exactly that—a structured, section-wise research solution that bridges the existing laws and the new Codes with accuracy, clarity, and confidence.

What Has Changed in India's Labour Laws?

29 Laws | 4 Codes | One Unified Framework

The four Labour Codes bring together multiple legislations—they will replace, in the future, decades of overlapping laws with a single, structured framework.

Beyond consolidation, the reform simplifies compliance, uplifts workplace standards, and expands access to social security benefits.

Overview of the Labour Code Consolidation

New Code		Number of Laws Consolidated
Industrial Relations Code, 2020	→	Merges 3 Laws
Occupational Safety, Health & Working Conditions Code, 2020	→	Merges 13 Laws
Code on Social Security, 2020	→	Merges 9 Laws
Code on Wages, 2019	→	Merges 4 Laws
